Beyond Europe, the United States has worked with several countries in attempting to curb migration into North America, including by paying Panama for equipment, transportation and logistics to repatriate ‘undocumented’ migrants; signing an agreement with the Philippines to host Afghan nationals as they process their applications

for asylum in the United States; and by encouraging the Brazilian government to impose new entry restrictions on selected Asian nationalities suspected of arriving in Brazil to facilitate further travel to the United States. ? (Sources: BBC, Al Jazeera, AP News)

UK borders and migration policy

It is quarterly immigration stats publication week! All our data dashboards, including Refugee and Asylum seeker, Ukraine and EU Settlement Scheme have been updated. Here are some good opinion pieces worth a read:

- Migration Observatory highlights that the Labour government have inherited falling immigration, but stresses that the asylum process has stagnated.
- Free Movement observes that only 4% of people who claimed asylum in the last 12 months have had their claims processed and dives into detail of some other cohorts including students and EUSS.
- BBC picks up on the point that fewer people are coming from abroad to work in the NHS and care sectors, and also reports on the asylum numbers and small boats. (Sources: Home Office, Migration Yorkshire, Migration Observatory, Free Movement, BBC)

In other news, as outlined in its pre-election manifesto, the government has announced a series of measures to reduce irregular migration and increase deportations. The actions, which include plans to reopen two detention centres, have been criticised by Amnesty International who accused the Labour Party of ‘reheating the last Government’s rhetoric.’ Other suggested approaches include tacking migrant smugglers in their countries of origin, including Iraqi Kurdistan. (Sources: The Labour Party, The Independent, Amnesty International, Express)

The interim ICIBI Chief Inspector has outlined his priorities for the coming months, including inspections into clandestine entry into the UK, and the Home Office process and practices regarding age assessments. Calls for evidence will follow soon. (Source: gov.uk)

Finally, the Department of Health and Social Care in collaboration with the Home Office published a help sheet to assist adult social care providers applying for a Certificate of Sponsorship to sponsor care workers overseas on the health and care visa route. It outlines the steps involved in the application process and includes tips on how to provide the appropriate evidence required by the Home Office to meet the genuine vacancy requirement.
